Dedication

MADELINE MAGUIRE

Miss Madeline Maguire, our dedicated and admired Spanish teacher, retired last June. She left us in order to spend more time with her family and, "to do things I haven't had time to do before."

Traveling will be high on her list. In the past, Miss Maguire has visited Australia, New Zealand, and South America. She now plans to see India and the Orient.

While she was teaching at Brighton, Miss Maguire's greatest joy was hearing from her former students. Both students and faculty miss her warmth and friendliness.

We respectfully dedicate this issue of the Gothic to Miss Maguire.

Editorial Board

As editor-in-chief of the Gothic, it was my responsibility to choose and develop this year's theme. In choosing, I wanted it to be relevant to you, the readers, and since there is an avid interest in astrology I felt this would serve as a proper motif. The staff and I wish to thank Mrs. Garvey, our advisor, whose assistance has helped to make this year's book a success. To each and all we also extend our sincere appreciation for the opportunity of expressing ourselves, for we like to think that every page spotlights the best we have to offer. Your enthusiastic response will have made it all worthwhile and we thank you.

Headmaster's Message

Mr. M. Henry McInerney

"MAN CONFRONTS HIS DESTINY"

The theme of this year's Yearbook is "Man Confronts His Destiny." An adequate analysis of this topic might require volumes, whereas we have space for only a few reactions.

One might ask such questions as: What is man; Whence came he; Whither goes he; and How must he travel. One might also inquire what is meant by the term "Destiny."

In these days of Apollo flights and pictures of man on the moon, we become astounded by achievements of scientists and astronauts. Surely, the landing of man on the moon was a colossal achievement. Yet, when we reflect that in comparison to the distance of other heavenly bodies, the moon is relatively near to the earth, we begin to wonder whence they all come and how do they retain their respective locations and identities. Let us leave the answers to these questions to theologians and scientists. One simple answer could be just: The Lord knows.

Man, on the other hand, has been described by the poet Wordsworth in his "Ode on Immortality" as a "trailing cloud of glory" coming from God, "Who is our home." He thus points out that we were created by God, and that God is our destiny.

Life has been described as a vale of tears, through which we pass in preparation for life hereafter. We can be sure that our Creator has given each of us the endowments to pass through life successfully. He has given us the guide lines, the rules and regulations which, if we follow, guarantee success. No matter where our human destiny leads us, if we keep in mind our eternal destiny and follow the guide lines the Lord has given us, we should be able to live in the hope of reaching our true, eternal destiny, God, himself.

Administration

Assistant Headmaster
Mr. John R. O'Brien

The officers of Brighton's Administration handle the many and complex duties involved in the management of a high school.

Mr. O'Brien, our assistant headmaster, performs such duties as registration, planning the calendar for curricula and supervising student attendance, among other responsibilities.

Our three guidance counselors provide invaluable assistance to students in making educational and vocational choices.

Miss O'Neil, the school nurse, gives medical care to students and to members of the faculty.

Miss Clarke and Miss Walsh, our librarians, assist the students in the use of our library facilities, buy new books, and maintain the library.

Art

Picasso . . . sketch . . . water colors . . . canvas . . . nature . . . easel . . . abstract art.

Members of the Art Department, through experimentation with cloth, wire, paper, and paints, find new means of self-expression while they provide the school with a unique art exhibit. Art students, under the guidance of Miss Brennan, design and make the props and posters for school activities.

Beauty is life when life unveils her holy face.

Miss Doris Phillips

Business

Debit . . . credit . . . comptometer . . . carriage release . . . invoice . . . dictation . . . Eyes off the keys!

Miss Phillips is head of Brighton High School's Business Department. Brighton High recognizes the importance of educating broadly as it trains professionally in order to prepare our students to achieve positions in a wide variety of fields.

The course of study includes typing, transcription, office practice, merchandising, business law, and economics. Students in the merchandising course participate in a two-month field experience in an organization related to their field of concentration.

If you cannot work with love but only with distaste, it is better that you should leave your work.

Ignition . . . starter . . . Stop! . . . pump . . . oil valve . . . flooded . . . mechanic . . . carburetor . . . jack . . . tire . . . flat.

The co-operative course is designed to give our young men a basic knowledge of auto mechanics. When they graduate, they receive a certificate. They then work for a year before they receive their diplomas. Mr. Passaretti, a former Brighton High student, is head of the cooperative course. The curriculum includes mechanical drawing, driver education, mathematics, garage management, English, and other subjects of interest to future mechanics.

All knowledge is vain save when there is work.

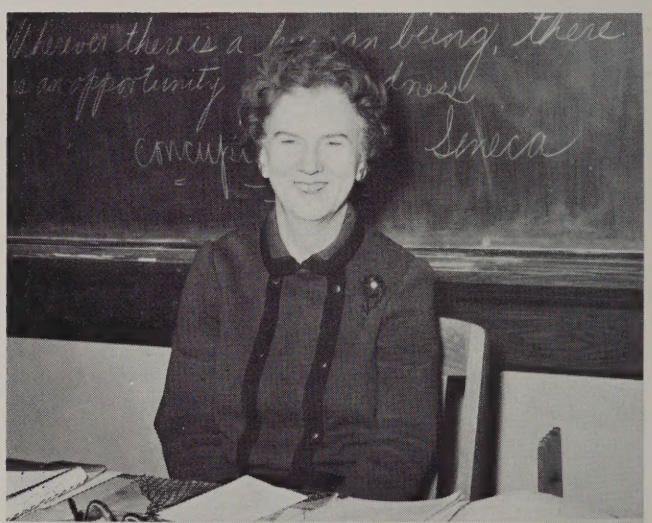
Mr. Fred Spracklin

Short story . . . participles . . . Will Shakespeare . . . meter . . . dangling modifiers . . . Rod McKuen . . . To be or not to be!

Brighton High School's English Department has a broad literature program. It is also devoted to the principle of furnishing our students with a thorough course in the basic concepts of grammar essential not only for speaking and writing well but also for fully comprehending written and spoken English.

Mrs. Barbara Bates



Miss Ruth Thompson

Miss Karen Norton

Miss Mary Welch

In trying to aid our students in a more individual manner, the department has added the following courses: remedial English, developmental reading, honors English, and CEEB. CEEB concentrates on preparing students for the College Boards.

History

Coup d'etat . . . Minutemen . . . log rolling . . . Dr. Livingston, I presume? . . . Plymouth Rock . . . The British are coming!

The History Department is headed by Mr. Avery. This department attempts to create in our students a sense of responsibility and concern for the society in which we live and to develop enthusiasm for and pride in the history of our country.

In addition to the regular history courses, students concentrate on such controversial and important issues as pollution, health, housing, transportation, urban development and planning and drugs.

Mr. David Sheehan

Mr. Thomas Lerra

Our students are active participants in such government programs as Student Government Day and the Police and Student Seminar which are held annually.

Language

Buenos dias . . . Comment ca? . . . Muy bien . . . Adios . . . muchachos . . . Au revoir . . . E Pluribus Unum . .

The language Department is under the direction of Miss Pelletier. The languages offered are French, Spanish, and Latin. In these courses sentence structure and phraseology are maintained, but the horizon is enlarged. The curriculum branches out from an exclusively classroom atmosphere to the culture and everyday living in France and Spain.

If these be vague words, then seek not to clear them. Vague and nebulous is the beginning of all things, but not their end.

At the beginning of our association with Brighton High we were young adults slowly progressing towards maturity. We have gained a fuller understanding of people through our having to associate with them and relate to them.

Think of it! Do you really want to leave the security Brighton High has offorded you and the personal feeling that there is always someone there when you need a friend to talk to? People around us have been, for the past three years, the uninvolved third party – the one you question or seek advice from when you begin to feel low, confused or wonder what exactly you are doing with your life. Think about the students whom you've known and maybe even felt a part of all these years – just a little bit sad, isn't it?

You might suddenly realize what exactly Brighton High has meant to you.

French Club

The French Club, under the guidance of Miss Pelletier, is a club for students interested in French culture and customs. Miss Pelletier devises various ways of creating a French atmosphere at meetings.

Math Club

The Math Club members, advised by Mr. Doherty, always have interesting and exciting activities. They have field trips throughout the year with demonstrations on how math is used in the business world.

Glee Club

Mr. Cappers, a new member of our faculty, now directs the Glee Club. This year the Glee Club brought happiness to the children who had to spend Christmas at the Kennedy Memorial Hospital as well as singing at Boston Common and in the Christmas Pageant. Since the majority of the Glee Club are seniors, their final performance will be on graduation day.

Chess Club

Members of the Chess Club sharpen and quicken their minds by challenging each other to stimulating games of chess. Practice prepares members for tournaments held between various high schools.

Afro-American Club

The Afro-American Club was formed primarily by students of African descent but is open to all interested students. Meetings concentrate on the role of the black man in America today.

Computer Club

A new activity of Brighton High is the Laboratory for Advanced Digital Research, commonly known as the Computer Club. There are approximately fifteen computer-minded members with Marc Jaime as president, Robert Willson as vice-president, Lynne Dorsey as secretary, and Sergio Kogan as treasurer.

National Honor Society

National Honor Society members are students who have maintained a high level of scholastic achievement. This honor is given to students in their junior and senior year.

Library Service Club

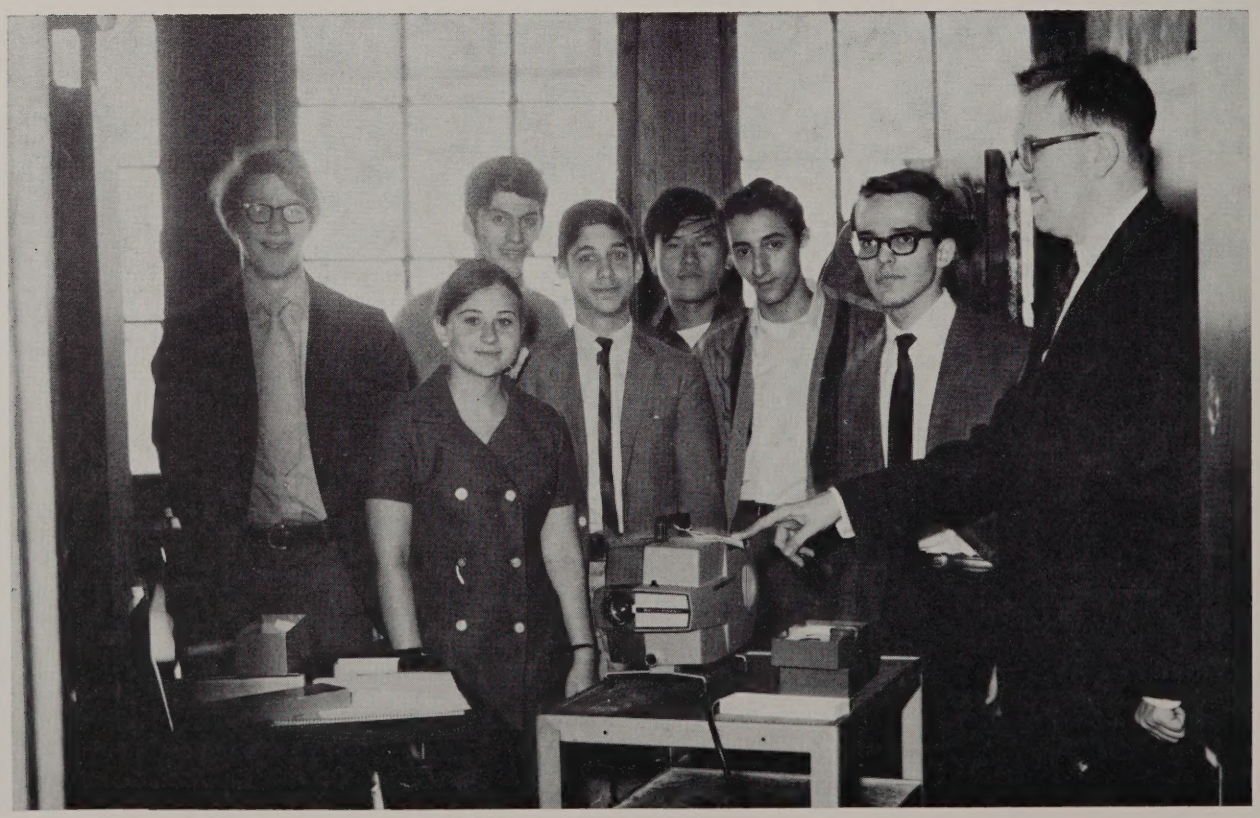
Under the direction of our new librarians, Miss Clarke and Miss Walsh, the Library Service Club has expanded the services available to our students.

Pep Club

Open to all students, the Pep Club is designed primarily to promote student support for the basketball games. Members of the club concern themselves with all athletic activities and sponsor numerous events.

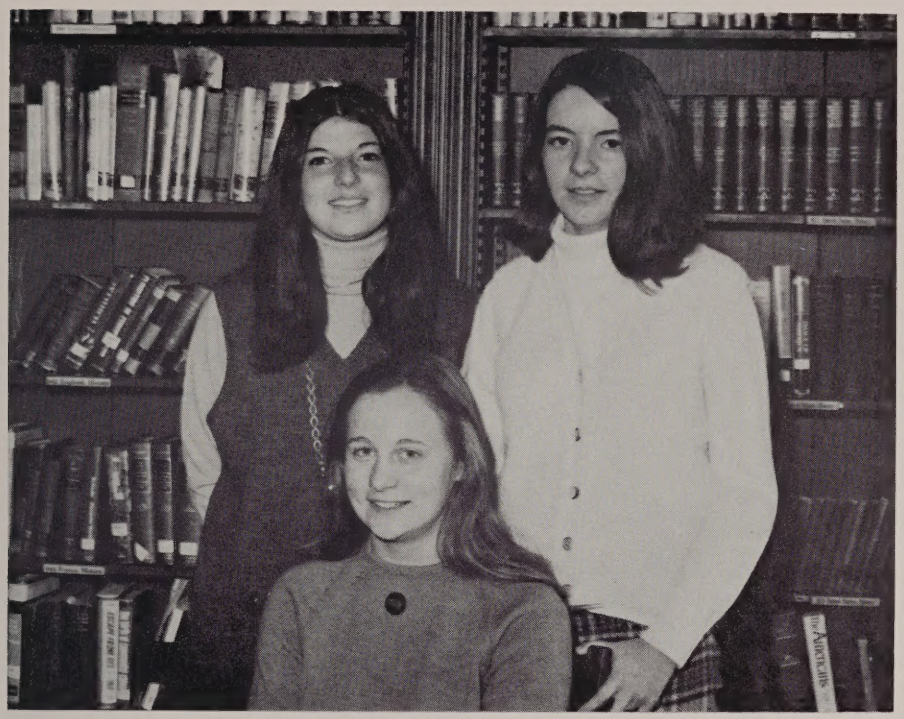
Audio-Visual Club

The Audio-Visual Club is directed by Mr. Doherty. The students serve the school by their efficient operation of movie projectors, phonographs, and tape recorders. Devoting free periods to this service, the members enable teachers to incorporate the use of both audio and visual equipment into classroom instruction.



Student Council

Advised by Mrs. Rowell, the Student Council consists of one representative from each homeroom. The representatives present the students' wishes and needs to Mr. McInerney.



Office Assistants

The office assistants are students who devote their free periods to valuable service for the office staff. Business students type many of the bulletin and absentee sheets which are circulated daily.

Class Poems

The world is a paradox –
We hate, yet we love,
We have love, yet we have war,
We all die, yet we all live,
We know it, yet we question it,
We revenge, yet we forgive,
There's sight, yet there's blindness,
We feel, yet we are heartless,
We're in tears, yet there's laughter,
We care, yet we're indifferent,
There's weakness, yet we have power.

The world is now transitional.
We feel the unease, the quivering of the atmosphere.
Something trying to happen;
Something ready to burst.

This world doesn't seem to see it –
Does it refuse to see it?
We question so very much.
We ask "Why" – there never seems to be an answer,
Always a "Why?"

We are not ignorant, deaf, blind.
We know what's happening.
The good and the bad are coming to the surface –
To show their true light.
You are pushing it down,
Yet we see it.
We must correct the bad
And preserve the good.

Life is ——————
Nothing more, nothing less.

Life mustn't be ignored,
It must be lived to the best of our ability.
We mustn't go against the changing of the world.

Vicki Belezos

PASSING TIME

Tomorrow is based on today,
Which was founded back in the past,
And the dreams of then are now,
And the dreams of now will be,
While the small things go unnoticed.
It seems that we always will find
That these are the things that last –
And these are the things that grow
When tomorrow becomes today,
As today was tomorrow once.

James Costello

It's three years that we've been together at Brighton High. At times we thought we would never leave, but now that graduation is here, we begin to remember certain things such as:

the stampede to the cafeteria, the groans of senior girls starting their gym classes in the middle of the year, the terrors of schoolboy football – the "Brighton Bengals" the crowded stands at basketball games, the below-zero temperatures at Boston Arena as we watched our heroes on ice, the great track team that no student has seen attain victory, the "true to life" look of papier maché figures by our art students, the large assortment of lost articles which fill the hidden swimming pool, the looks of despair on boys' faces as girls came to school with covered knees the pleasant odor of sulphur and formaldehyde on the third floor, the white sedan that is forever illegally parked on the terrace the orderly fashion in which the fire drills were executed each month, and, finally, the failure to meet deadlines by the magazine and yearbook staffs, which brings up one question – How did these masterpieces get printed this year?

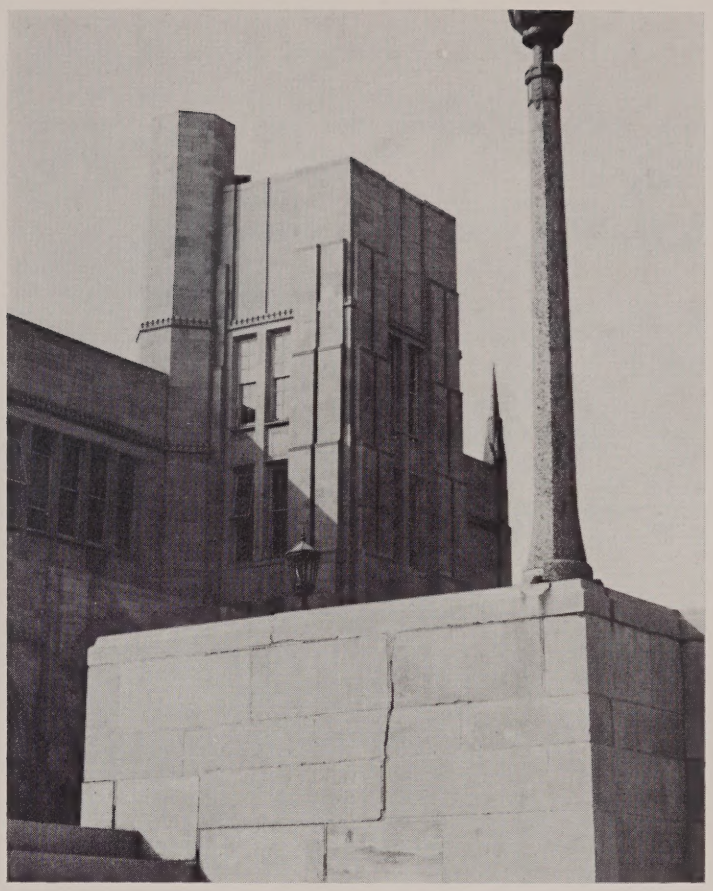
Class Oration



Now that we are at the end of our high school education, I feel it is appropriate to reflect upon the decade in which it has occurred. What other time in our history has been so full of triumph and turmoil? The thirties were marked by a depression; the forties, by a war; the fifties, by postwar adjustment and a passive adjustment in world affairs. These decades not only carried distinctive markings, but had a definite continuity throughout them. The sixties, however, were different. They began with the defeat of Richard Nixon and ended with his being President. They began with the promise of an energetic young leader and ended with an American flag on the moon.

As America proceeds into the seventies, the mood is quite different from that of 1960. We were moved and shaken during these ten years. We were horrified by assassinations and distressed to see generation against generation, man against man, race against race. But who can forget the drama of one afternoon in July when our hopes and exasperations rested in a tiny craft a quarter of a million miles away. The sixties, then certainly have been times of incongruence.

Weapons, pollution, and bigotry have made it explicit that the old ways will kill all of us. Not that the human race is altogether doomed, but unless we rectify some basic values, our sanity will be too far gone to rescue. In the future we will not have time to correct evils bit by bit, but must turn our energies to eliminating them quickly. In spite of all of our faults, America has the power to create a society which other countries can emulate, but more important, a society we will believe is just.

We are especially distressed, at least vocally, by the inconsistencies we see. We are inexperienced and tend to oversimplify the problems that confront us. But while we have our shortcomings, we do possess intelligence, a deep sense of moral responsibility, and an openness of spirit and hope. These attributes, if they continue to flourish and are brought to bear upon the problems of the country, will so change the seventies that, in retrospect, we will distinguish the past decade as one in which the spirit of America, due largely to its youth, was revitalized and renewed.

Class Will

We The Class of 1970, being of sound mind (although there is some doubt); sturdy body (thanks to our wonderful gym facilities); worthy character (which the deans of discipline will vouch for); and pleasant disposition (which in all sincerity is a result of the understanding between the faculty and student body) do hereby bequeath the following:

To Mr. McInerney: Love, Peace and Happiness.

To Mr. O'Brien: May his dream of becoming a headmaster come true soon.

To Mr. Avery: the pleasure of knowing Jackie Onassis, from Carmel Abbondanzio; and teachers like Mr. Bechard from Christine Dixon; a brass-bound book for your memorable tales, left by Lynne Dorsey; the intelligence of Shirlene Higgins; and a class ready for discussion and argument from Jane Iantosca.

To Mrs. Bates: a new set of Warriner's from Sharon Abbott and Debbie Marshall along with a working, speed reading machine from Judy Goldberg; an 8 x 10 glossy autographed from Mitchell Denton, and the gift of a midi coat from Sienora Haynes for the 50° English room left by Karen Hunter.

To Mrs. Boyle: a telephone directory of Boston from Debbie Antonelli; Steven Balukonis' knowledge of bookkeeping; a Nobel Prize for short stories from Sharon Chancey; Pat Freeman's demerits; and a dictaphone for past experiences from Gloria Strange.

To Miss Brennan: a hot line to Beacon Street from Gartrell Moore, and a full-time staff of sign painters from Gail Schneider.

To Mr. Bruno: a new set of "left-handed" wrenches from Richard Magyar, and a spark plug from George Smith.

To Mrs. Campbell of 205: Antoinette Austin's late and absent days; elevated roller skates and a pair of stilts from Sharon Chancey and Mary McNeil; also Marty Mondejar's fifth period cut slips.

To Mrs. Campbell of 108: Janet Healey's interior decorating talents.

To Mrs. Caraber: a bottle of Excedrin "in case she has one more class like ours" from Anne Barrett, and a bookcase for Room 221 from Judy Jacobs.

To Mr. Casey: a pair of fire-engine-red suspenders from Lynne Dorsey and a suit with eraser elbows from Margie Van.

To Mr. Cicciu: a new set of spark plugs, nuts and bolts from James Walker.

To Mr. Crescenzi: a rug for his head from Gerald Imbergano.

To Mrs. DesAutels: a hundred typewriters that work — from Mary McLean.

To Mr. Doherty: the "custody" of Steven Proctor by Sharon Chancey.

To Mrs. Garvey: a new closet mirror from Diane Drago; and a plant from Susan Durgin. She also receives a "know-what-they're-doing" Gothic staff from Kalliope Foundas; a class-cleaning robot from Cheryl Jones and Patricia Kondos; and a quiet homeroom period with Margie Van studying and not talking — from M. Van.

To Mr. Glancey: an encyclopedia of rule-of-thumb from Raymond McGrath.

To Mrs. Greenberg: a portable luggage carrier from Diane Coogias; a new student like Beverly Startz from Beverly Startz; and the best of luck from Donna Kiley.

To Mrs. Hamadeh: a hundred worms and fresh fish from Debbie Antonelli and Gail Schneider.

To Mr. Healey: new chains and mod goggles from Christine Dixon; a bowl of cherries from Jane Iantosca; positive and negative valence cards used by Ellen Richman; Excedrin to cope with his classes from Rena Mazzola; and the third floor corridor from Carmen Estevez.

To Miss Horgan: happiness from Ernestine Bradford.

To Miss Kandraska: a new room, compliments of Rena Mazzola.

To Miss Kritzer: a quiet class from Charles Vasquez-Solis and Joyce Carey; a taxicab at 8:25 a.m. from Theresa Kunerth.

To Mr. Lerra: a successful track team from David Babcock; memories of Ernestine Bradford; and a reserved table at the Pancake House from Helen Powell.

To Mr. McCarthy: a set of passable tests from Kalliope Foundas and Nancy Novak's favorite eraser.

To Mr. McCarthy, our gym teacher: Harris Rosenblatt's gym socks; Rodney Morris' jump shot; a heating unit for the gym or an indoor ice skating rink.

To Mr. McCormick: a law suit with stripes from Sienora Haynes; a gum chewing class from Tony Snaddon; and a new personality for use on alternate Tuesdays from Judy Trask.

To Mrs. Moynihan: unbreakable windows from Carmel Abbondazio.

To Miss Nelson: a ten-foot frog from June Winters and a girl friend for Sydney, the skeleton, from Mark Jaime.

To Mr. O'Brien: a book of the 100,000 most often misspelled words from Donna Lopez.

To Miss Parenteau: a Spanish class from Sherrill Levine.

To Miss Pelletier: a new map of France from Marcia Schultz and a quiet homeroom from Deborah Smith.

To Miss Pembroke: a telephone directory from Joe Bagley; a paper filled with business law crimes from Linda Haby; and a lawyer boy friend from Steven Proctor.

To Mr. Rantuccio: spark plugs for a Mack diesel from John Walsh.

To Mrs. Rowell: a dictating machine from Sandra Cox; Sheila Martin's absent days; a new thermos from Paul Scanlon, and a silent student council (naturally Margie Van and Sandra Leone won't be present).

To Mr. Sheehan: Paul Carney's hockey stick; memories of the hockey team, from Stephen Kelly; a fun economics class from Donna O'Malley; Dennis Paul's brains; the remembrance of going to the tourney from Tony Visocchi, and a lifetime supply of broken hockey sticks from Charles Vozella.

To Mrs. Spillane: Norma Brown's typing errors.

To Mr. Spracklin: Paula Briguglio's sister Georgette; a book of jokes from Mimi Edel, Yvonne Hoffman, and Gartrell Moore; a toupee from Rena Mazzola; and a bottle of Simonize from Ed Buettner; and Jerome Denny just plain leaves.

To Colonel Sullivan: a new suit from Jacqueline Hollinger and a tub of Kentucky Fried Chicken from Cornell Williams.

To Mr. Tenney: best of luck from Marcia McCallum.

To Miss Thompson: "The poetry I studied" from Elizabeth Clinkscale; a new pad of demerits from Keith Cottman; a new literary staff, "The Mafia," from Robert DiCicci; "absentee cards that she sent me" from Stephanie Kokinos; and Bessie Payne's class picture.

To Miss Tobin: two years' effortless work from Michael Berton; operable windows and shades from Gail Collas; unbreakable chalk from Maureen McDonough; and an honorary membership in the Black Panthers from Gail Schneider.

To Mrs. Woods: new sewing machines — with warranties — from Betty Proffitt.

To the Cafeteria: Bromo Seltzer from Robert Richman.

To the School: Sheila Bonds' twin sister; the honor of having Bruno Cardarelli from Bruno Cardarelli; happiness for all who attend from Estella Chan; another master key for the gym from Valerie McLarty; my experience working in the office from Linda Levy; working clocks from Nanette Farmer; Laurie Fuller's brains; an indestructible intercom from Susan Gilroy; strength to survive without the Class of '70 from the Class of '70.

To the Faculty: from the Class of '70, a summer for recuperation, and to next year's seniors, the hope of graduating — if not in '71 — how about in '72?

Class Prophecy

The time — 1988; the place — the moon; the occasion — the eighteenth reunion of Brighton High's Class of 1970.

We, the graduating class of 1970, decided at our fifth reunion to extend humanity by colonizing a section of the moon. We have called this colony "Gothowers." Gothowers is a beautifully planned subcity, covering one eighth of the moon.

At present, we are about to engage in a victory party for the fulfillment of a great task.

Here we are, about to enter the gigantic Pru-Empire Building, which was constructed by Bruno Cardarelli, an incomparable architect. On our right, as we enter, is an art gallery in which we have hung many famous masterpieces by such renowned artists as June Winter and Vicki Belezos. As we move past the art gallery, we find the Communications Department. Here Spanish interpreter Marcia Schultz and Italian interpreter Silvia Antonnellis work endlessly relaying messages to interplanetary satellites.

Turning left at the water fountain, which is now flowing with champagne supplied by eccentric millionaires, Joe Bagley, Keith Cottman, and Cheryl Williams, we come upon the Data Processing Center. Computer Programmers James Walker and Denise Tolliver, and IBM keypunch operator Bessie Payne work here, recording all important information.

At the opposite end of the corridor is the Public Relations Department. Here we can locate social worker Margie Van, assisted by Estella Chan and Mimi Edel, who are working with and for the gifted younger generation.

As we proceed to the second floor, we approach the Marriage Bureau. Posted on the bulletin board are the names of recently married classmates. Alphabetically, we have Carmel Abbondanzio, Norma Brown, Janice Bisbee, Elizabeth Clinkscales, Nanette Farmer, Mary Glennon, Janet Healy, Linda Haby, Robert Iafrate, Donna Kiley, Theresa Kunerth, Linda Lewis, Pearl Lucas, Valerie McLarty, Mary McNeil, Helen Powell, Gloria Strange, Mary Stynes, Betty Tardivo, Tony Visocchi, and Deborah Warren. Not listed are Stephen Balu- kinis, Paul Oppenheim, and George Smith, still eligible young bachelors, or skirt-watchers, if you will.

Also located on this floor are the Business, Fashion, and Education departments. Heading the Business Department are Harry Rosenblatt and Stephen Tates, two self-employed businessmen. As a secretary, Patricia Freeman accomplishes very little since she has been employed by Mr. Rosenblatt and Mr. Tates. All accounts are handled by Antoinette Austin and Carmen Estevez, two expert accountants. In our Fashion Department we are lucky to have Stephanie Kokinos, top fashion designer and owner of fashion boutiques. Modeling her chic fashions are Jacqueline Hollinger and Sienora Haynes. In Education, we have Anne Barrett, Diane Coogias, Susan Durgin, Paula Vyres, Diane Drago, Patricia Kondos, Cathy Mooney, Sharon Abbott, and Sherrill Levine. Without the help of these outstanding teachers, what would Judy Trask ever do as mother of eighteen uneducated children rocking the spaceship?

Finally reaching the fifteenth floor, our party is about to begin in Brighton Memorial Hall.

Seated together are five R.N.'s; Sharon Chancey, Susan Gilroy, Andre White, Rena Mazzola and Nancy Novak, who will remove your tonsils with a pair of pliers, if you don't watch out! Conversing with them are Lynne Dorsey, M.D., Karen Adams, laboratory technician, Shelia Bonds, child psychologist, and Debbie Smith, radiologic technician.

Pro-ball players David Babcock and Rodney Morris are discussing sports near the refreshments, which are rapidly disappearing.

Backstage, successful journalists Gail Collas and Christine Dixon are interviewing singers Carlos Vasquez-Solis and, surprisingly, Mitchell Denton. Later they will interview comic Melvin George, actor Robert Di Cicco, and actress Cecelia Eaves.

Radio and television announcer Michael Berton interrupts our party to bring us some important announcements from Earth. "It seems that Stephen Jelley has just become the President of the U.S.S.R.; Beverly Startz', mission in New York City has proved to be successful; Robert Sernions, FBI agent, has just captured the notorious coat thief of Brighton High School; Charles Vozzella, engineer, with the support of Charles Sorgiman and Richard Magejar, machinists, has just completed Moon Carrier II. This magnificent spaceship can carry 300 people to or from the Moon in nine hours. Stewardesses on this flight will be Donna Webber and Janice DeVellis. Millionaires Shirlene Higgins, Marcia McCallum, Kevin Moran, and Sheila Martin supported this enterprise. After eighteen years, unfortunately, Mike Klernik is still a senior at Brighton High School.

As we resume our course, we find Dorothy Barczyn discussing her job at Apple Studios (home of the Beatles) in London, with Rosa Emory, a VISTA worker.

Around the hall, we can see such familiar faces as Karen Hunter, Gloria Dixon, and Judy Jacobs, all owners of elegantly designed mansions. Now entering are Ernestine Bradford, Lilian Chan, Anthony Snaddon and Patricia Woo, who are our fellow travelers of the galaxy. They enjoy visiting life from all perspectives.

Most of our classmates have been successful in the past eighteen years. For example, Deborah Antonelli has finally grown to the noticeable height of 5' 3"; Ellen Richman is having a pleasant stay in the White House; Frances Vlachos has made Boston her permanent home; and Kelley Chunn is intensely involved in staying alive. She is really hung up on life.

However, as time passes, so must we. It is time for us to say good-bye to some and goodnight to others, but we will never forget the wonderful times that we had, and the terrible times the teachers had, at BHS. Remembering the cutting of classes, the racing for the buses at the close of school, the ringing of the lunch bell, talking our way out of demerits, and last but not least, the familiar ring of "Your Attention, Please," makes us feel that it happened only yesterday.

But this is today in the year 1988 A.D., the superspaceage in which Judi Goldberg, Maureen McDonough, and Gail Rubin are enjoying the peaceful world that exits here on the Moon, where all men are judged by who they are and not by what they look like. Looking toward the future, which is only around the corner, seems to frighten some, but to the Class of 1970, it will be welcome.

Coaches

In his third year as head coach of Brighton High's football team Bob McCarthy has worked hard to formulate a winning tradition in football as well as in baseball. The ideas that he stressed the most in this year's team were self-confidence, determination and above all class. As a Major in the Marine Corps Reserve he is the personification of the marine spirit.

Coach Bill Mahoney of the Brighton Bengal Basketball Team for the second consecutive year has put his team into the Tech Tourney. It would seem Mr. Mahoney has found the right combination for a winning team.

Mr. Tom Hennessey a former star for the Boston Patriots, has given the football team the benefit of his past experience. As assistant football coach at Brighton High he has worked hard with the defensive backs to teach them how to play a particularly difficult position. Mr. Hennessey has also coached our extremely capable Junior Varsity Basketball Team.

The coach of the Junior Varsity Football Team has been Mr. Tom Lerra. Over a two year period he has compiled a fantastic winning record. In addition Mr. Lerra also coaches our fine track team. He is another prime example of Brighton High's esprit de corps.

Our powerful hockey team was headed by second year coach Dave Sheehan. An attribute of his excellent coaching is illustrated by the fact that he took an underdog team and put them at the top of their division. It seems sure that Brighton hockey will have added success with Coach Sheehan.

Mr. Joseph Cicciu the soccer coach, is the newest member of our coaching staff. He is a former player-coach for the Trans-Alpine Vikings in Northern Italy. With his background and enthusiasm in soccer he has put together a fine young team. His knowledge and zeal assures Brighton of many fine soccer teams in the future.

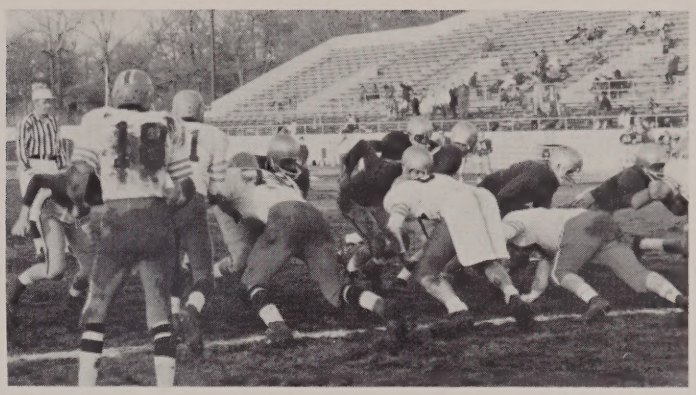
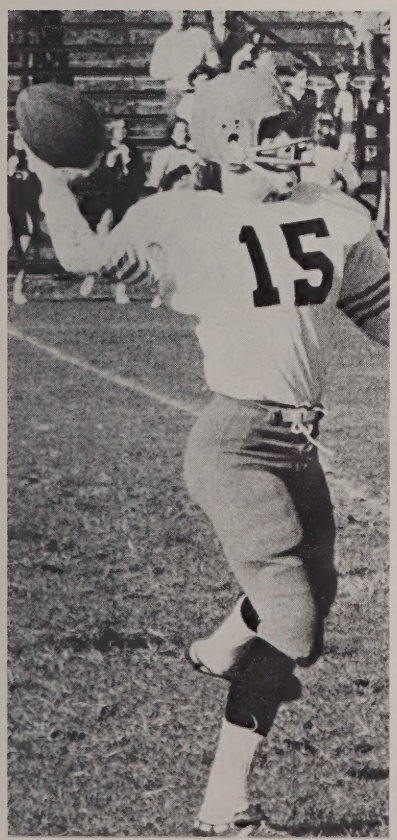
Football

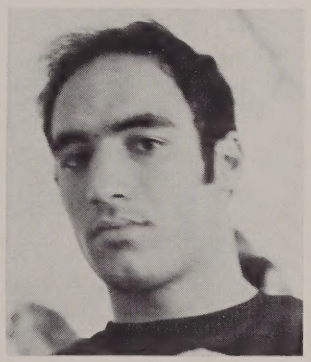


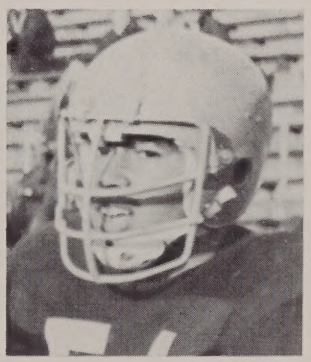
The Bengals, led by All-City Captain Jim Houhoulis, opened their season against Boston Trade in the Annual Jamboree at White Stadium. The game ended in a scoreless deadlock as Brighton's defense never allowed their opponents to cross midfield. Determination to win proved to be the prime factor in Brighton's 56-20 victory over Jamaica Plain. Senior standout of the game was Rod Morris, who gained 104 yards in 12 carries.

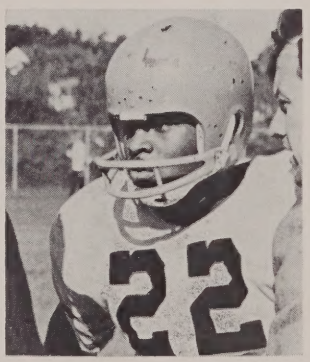
The Bengals lost to Roslindale in a thrilling 14-12 contest, in which Brighton could not sustain a final fourth-period drive. The following game with Dorchester found Brighton once again unable to rally in the fourth period. Final tally: 14-6.

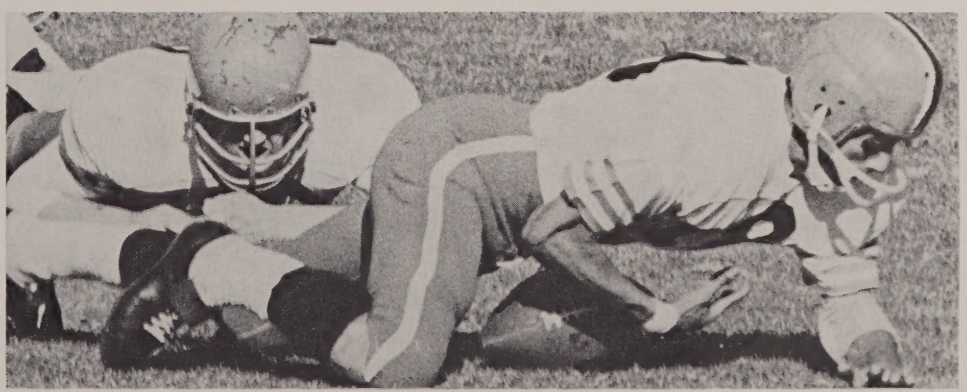
The Brighton Eleven won their season finale over their new arch-rival Charlestown by a score of 26-6. A crowd of about two thousand were on hand to witness Brighton High's first Thanksgiving Day game. Quarterback Paul Carney highlighted the game with two touchdown passes to Rod Morris and Larry Capen.











The 1970 Brighton High basketball team compiled a fantastic 12-2 record under the masterful coaching of Coach Mahoney. The Bengals, with Co-Captains Rodney Morris and Jerome Denny, blended height and speed with physical strength and scoring capacity.

In Brighton's 70-58 home opening win against Salem, Forward Tony D'Isidoro and Center Wiley McDonald collected 24 and 19 rebounds respectively, while Bob Reid scored 24 points and Rodney Morris, 16.

One of the most thrilling games of the year was the 92-91 victory over Jamaica Plain. The game was sent into overtime. Through the sharpshooting of Rod Morris and the uncanny rebounding of Wiley McDonald, Brighton triumphed in an important game.

A highlight of the season was the battle for basketball supremacy in Brighton. St. Columbkille lost to Brighton 73-58 in a contest where Jerome Denny received the night's Most Valuable Player Award for Brighton High.

Guard Erskine Henderson proved to be a most valuable asset to the club. He effortlessly brought the ball downcourt against a press, set up players, and literally ran the game. Fine play was also contributed by Mike Elliot, Mike Quinn, Raymond Darden, Owen Wells, Jim Houhoulis, and Jim Costello. Costello was probably the hardest worker on the team and the most liked.

This year has marked the second consecutive time Brighton has been in the Tech Tourney.

Hockey

Brighton fielded a strong team this year. Led by veterans Tony Visocchi, Dean Rider, Paul Carney, Jack Laffey, and Charles Vozella, the team easily captured the title for Division II, and a berth in the State Tournament. It promises to be a strong contender for the title for many years to come.

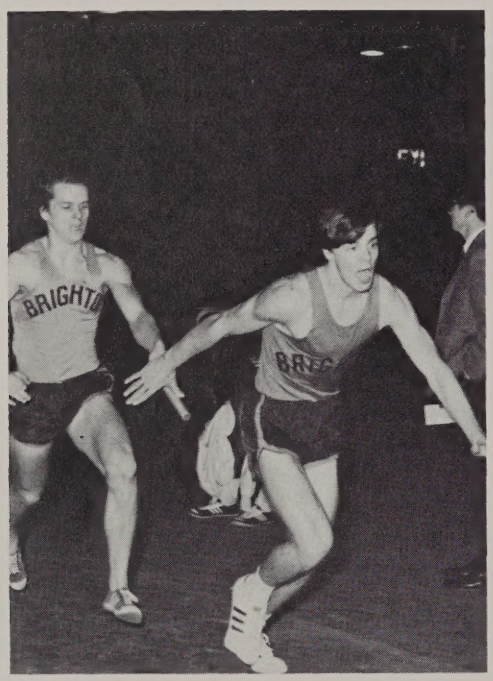
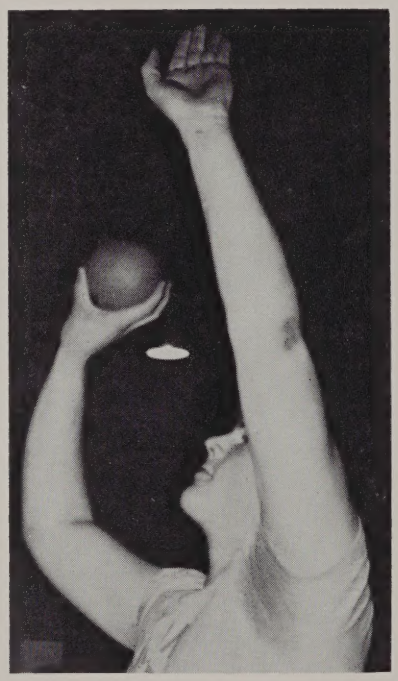
Track

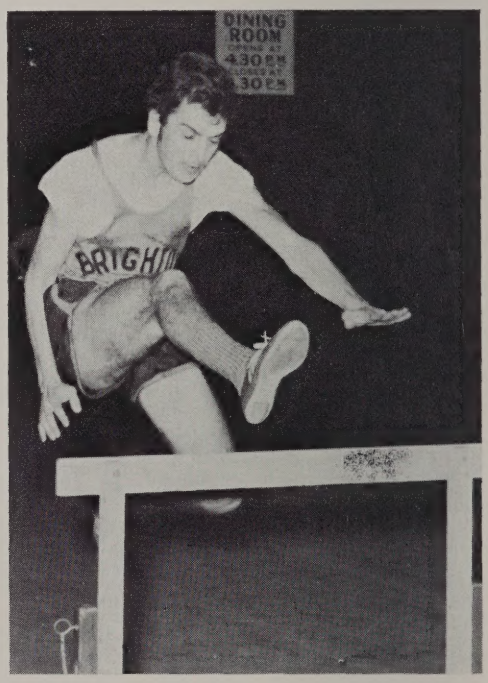
Under the leadership of Captain Larry Capen, Brighton's track team concluded a successful season with a record of 7-1. Capen became the District League's 600-yard winner, while Dave Babcock came in first for the regimental shot-put.

Another senior standout for the track team was hurdler Savas Trellopoulos. During the season Brighton contenders consistently displayed their potency, as they defeated their opposition by overwhelming scores.

In the final Regimental Meet, Brighton High finished third behind Technical and Boston Latin.







Soccer

Co-Captains Savas Trellopoulos and Carlos Vasquez-Solis led a young but determined soccer team into their first year of organized league play. Lack of experience was compensated for by hustle and a desire to show well.

The team never quit on the field and always gave a good game. Graduating seniors on the team are Carlos Vasquez-Solis, Savas Trellopoulos, Ronald Eisenhart and Robert Menconi.

I. Thoughts about the hereafter
(or . . . Is there a life after graduation?)
Seriously, graduation isn't the end, you know. It's just the beginning. And it could be the beginning of one of the most challenging and fulfilling times of your life. At New England Telephone.
It could be, that is, if you want a job with a challenge as big as your ambition. We need people at New England Telephone — all kinds. People who are sincerely interested in the future. And who are looking for more from their job than just work!
Your starting salary is good and you get automatic raises. You don't need experience! Your advancement is tailored to your talents. And you get excellent fringe benefits.

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

The Gothic Staff of 1970 would like to thank the following people for helping us make this yearbook a success.

To Mrs. Bates, who proof read all of the material and advised the literary staff so well.

To Miss Brennan, whose original artistic ideas and guidance were invaluable.

To Mrs. Campbell, who worked so hard to secure the advertisements.

To Mrs. Caraber, who worked so diligently in the writing of the Will and the Prophecy.

To Mr. Blanchard, owner and editor of The Reporter Press, publisher of our yearbook, who helped us to complete our deadlines.

To Mr. McCarthy of Data Processing, who was always there to help us with the countless names.

To the Purdy Company, our photographers, especially to both Mr. Jay Bleiler and Mr. Corregan, who rushed many pictures so that we could meet our deadlines.

To Mrs. Garvey, our dedicated and understanding adviser, who guided us through rough times, a very special thanks.

There is one
Race of men, one race of gods; both have breath of life from a single mother. But sundered power holds us divided, so that the one is nothing; while for the other the brazen sky is established their sure citadel forever. Let we have some likeness is great intelligence or strength to the immortals, though we know not what the day will bring, what course after nightfall
destiny has written that we must run to the end.
